TODAY & TOMORROW

NOVEMBER 13-26, 1982

(Newsbriefs continued)

The Graduate Division is offering a four-year fellowship for entering graduate students, beginning with the 1983-84 academic year. The award will consist of a stipend of $7,200 annually, plus all student fees and tuition.

The purpose of establishing this new multi-year award, which will guarantee support for the major period of graduate study, is to recruit outstanding students to UCSF, according to Dean Kozloff.

Funds for this fellowship are from the Earle C. Anthony Trust, a private endowment for aid to graduate students. One four-year fellowship will be awarded each year, and will be given alternately to students in the basic biological or social and behavioral sciences and humanities.

The first fellowship will be awarded to a new student in the social and behavioral sciences or humanities, September, 1983.

Each eligible program may nominate one outstanding entering student who is a US citizen or permanent resident. Nominations and all supporting documents should be submitted to the Graduate Division, Room S 140 by February 15, 1983. The fellowship offer will be made by the dean by March 1, 1983. For further information call x2310.

Enoch Callaway, MD, professor of Psychiatry, has received the 19th Annual J. Elliott Royer Award and its $15,000 cash prize from the UC Regents.

The Royer Award honors the memory of the Oakland physician, who died in 1961 leaving an endowment with instructions that a campus committee single out the San Francisco or East Bay physician who has made "the most significant contribution to the advancement of psychiatry and neurology during the past year."

Callaway was the unanimous choice for this year's award, based on his contributions as a neuropsychiatric researcher, his involvement in the field locally and nationally, and the training and inspiration he has provided to a generation of young researchers and clinicians.

Director of research at LPPI since 1958, Callaway is presently investigating how various drugs affect human behavior, creatively linking recent neuropsychological and neuropharmacologic information with findings in cognitive psychology and psychophysiology. Callaway's reputation as a scholar is international, and his research in psychiatry and neurology has led to the development of contemporary neuropsychiatry.

Three new members have been appointed to the UCSF Board of Overseers: Herman Gallegos, Eileen R. Growald, and Gene Carbone.

Gallegos is chair of the board and chief executive officer of the US Human Resources Corporation, a management consulting firm with headquarters in San Francisco. He has been actively involved in promoting the social and economic well-being of Hispanic Americans for some 28 years. Gallegos also is a director of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph, and a trustee of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Growald is president of the Institute for the Advancement of Health, which is headquartered in New York and promotes scientific research and health education in the interactions between mind and body. She also is a director of People for the American Way and of the Rockefeller Family Fund.

Gene Carbone is immediate past president of the UCSF Hospitals Auxiliary. She replaces Jeannette Katz as ex-officio member of the board.

The UCSF Board of Overseers was formed in October, 1980. It consists of 21 business and community leaders whose role is to advise the Chancellor, deans and campus leaders on issues of concern to the campus. The group meets three times a year.

NEWS BRIEFS

A national sampling of self-help and advocacy groups among the aged has been compiled in a manual published by researchers at the UCSF Aging Health Policy Center.

The 109-page manual, entitled "Self-Help and Advocacy Groups Among the Aged," has been made available to state area agencies on aging.

Representatives of 65 advocacy and self-help groups from Vermont to California, interviewed over a nine-month period, were asked to identify elements of success in their organizations. Their responses provided material for a manual of services that range from recreation and education to consumer cooperatives, mental health and home health services.

Funded by the US Administration on Aging, Department of Health and Human Services, the manual outlines start-up procedures for specific types of self-help and advocacy programs, including advice on arranging the first meeting; identifying goals, programs and leaders; and developing organizational structure, funding, staffing and publicity. To obtain a copy of the manual call x5902.

All San Francisco residents who would like more information on arthritis can now call the Arthritis Information Network at 931-0463, Monday to Friday, 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. A public health nurse will provide information on support systems, employment counseling, aids to daily living, self-help classes and other information on the disease. The network is part of the Rosalind Russell Medical Research Center for Arthritis.

Due to the revised holiday schedule for the month of December, a few changes have been made in the employee payroll schedule:

- Employees paid monthly at an hourly rate: PAF forms are due in Personnel (Room LH 150) by 3 p.m., Wednesday, December 15; time sheets due in the Accounting Satellite Office (Student Services Building, upper level) by 11 a.m., Friday, December 24.
- Employees paid semi-monthly (time period covering December 16 to 31): PAF forms are due in Personnel by 3 p.m., Wednesday, December 15; time sheets due in the Accounting Satellite Office by 11 a.m., Friday, December 24. Checks will be issued for both types of employees, Friday, January 7.
- Employees who are normally paid on the first of the month will be paid on Monday, January 3, 1983 for their December earnings.

Several UCSF faculty members will be appearing on "Over Easy" programs, KQED-TV, Channel 9, between now and the end of the year. They include:

- Martin L. Rossman, MD, clinical associate, Medicine, "Acupuncture," Monday, November 15;
- Carol H. Winograd, MD, assistant professor, Medicine, SFGH, "Circulation," Thursday, November 18;
- Ruth H. Grobstein, MD, assistant professor, Radiation Oncology, "Breast Cancer," Friday, November 26;
- Marion Nestle, PhD, asociate dean, School of Medicine, "Minerals," Friday, December 3;
- Chancellor Emeritus Francis A. Sooy, MD, "Tinnitus," Thursday, December 23.

Nestle also appeared on three additional programs the first two weeks of November, discussing "Osteoporosis," "Vitamins" and "Vitamins and Cancer."

"Over Easy" is seen weeknights at 7 p.m. and repeated the following day at 12:30 p.m.

A CVRI research group headed by Ernest Kun, MD, has been awarded a five-year grant, totaling more than $1 million, by the National Institute of Health for the study of cardiac enlargement.

The funds will be used to investigate the molecular and genetic causes of enlargement of the heart. Cardiac enlargement, or hypertrophy, is commonly associated with hypertension and a variety of other diseases, but is also a normal result of exercise and can be caused by a variety of developmental hormones.

Kun's group will be looking at the differences between enlargement due to normal growth, exercise or pathological conditions. Such basic research will eventually lead to a better understanding of the development of the heart and other tissues in the fetus, and of the causes of cardiac enlargement in adults.

A professor of Pharmacology, Biochemistry and Biophysics, Kun has been studying regulatory factors of transcription of the genetic material DNA—in particular how this regulation determines the ultimate function of the cell.

Working with Kun will be research biochemists George Jackowski, Eva Kirsten and Jerome McLick. Kun is a recipient of a US Public Health Service Research Career Award.

An informal faculty development program for new and junior faculty will be held on Monday, November 22 in the Millberry Union Lounge from 3 to 5 p.m.

Sponsored by the Office of the Academic Vice Chancellor and the Academic Senate Committee on Equal Opportunity, the program will consist of four talks:

- "Organizational Structure of the Campus," Chancellor Julius R. Krevans;
- "The Academic Senate," John A. Starkweather, chair, Academic Senate;
- "Research Funds—Who May Apply? For How Much?" Michael H. Humphreys, chair, Senate Committee on Research;
- "The Faculty Review Process: Appointment, Advancement, Tenure," David J. Ramsay, Academic Vice Chancellor.

All new and junior faculty planning to attend should contact the Office of the Academic Vice Chancellor, Room S 115, x1881.

The UCSF Department of Social Work will celebrate its 40th anniversary with a reception on Sunday, December 5 at the Alumni/Faculty House. All current and former members of the department's staff have been invited to attend.

The reception will honor the four prior directors of the department—Ruth Cooper, PhD, (1942-48), Addie Thomas, MSW, (1948-53), Marian Metz, PhD, (1953-74), and Marie Simmons, MSW, (1974-82). Present director is Mary Jane Allison, MSW.

One of the oldest and largest departments of social work among western hospitals, and the first to be established within the UC system, the department currently provides clinical social work services to inpatients of all hospital units and most outpatient clinics.

The Computer Center's Scientific Computing Services, a resource for consultation and assistance in statistics and computer programming, has made available to all departments on a recharge basis, two new services: examination grading services and the design of different data entry operations.

- Examinations in multiple-choice format may utilize answer sheets which can be read by an optical scanner and then scored by a computer program. The examination grading software can provide instructors with class means, standard deviations, number of students choosing each possible answer, correlations between items and total scores and other useful summaries. Also, student scores can be stored and the results of several examinations can be summarized or averaged to aid in assigning a final course grade.
- Computing Services also offers sensible alternatives to punched cards or line-by-line data entry which may be faster, more accurate and less expensive, depending on the particular application, such as optical scanning, micro-computer utilization, interactive data entry and screen-oriented information capture.

Computer Services staff are available for an initial consultation at no charge to discuss this new grading service and demonstrate various data entry techniques. For further information call x2974.

Seats are currently available on the following UCSF vanpools: Belmont, Belmont/San Mateo, Concord, Los Altos, Napa/Sonoma and Walnut Creek. The vanpool program presently transports some 400 UCSF faculty, students and staff to the campus daily. For further information on the vanpool program, ridesharing, the Marin Commuter Club, buspooling and computer-matched carpooling, call x1511 or visit Transportation Services at A C14.

IN MEMORIAM

Harvey Milton Patt, professor, Radiology & Physiology. An internationally renowned expert in radiation biology and director of the Laboratory of Radiobiology & Environmental Health, Patt received recognition here and abroad for his many achievements in radiobiology, in particular his study of the physiological consequences of radiation exposure. He was awarded the prestigious Ernest O. Lawrence Award of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission in 1964 for his pioneering work in the way chemicals modify the effects of radiation. That same year he came to UCSF to become director of the Laboratory of Radiobiology after 18 years of research at Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago. His recent work at UCSF concentrated on the mechanisms of cell proliferation and renewal in bone marrow after exposure to radiation or chemicals. A memorial service will be held in early December in Cole Hall. A memorial fund will be established by the Laboratory of Radiobiology and Environmental Health. For further information call x1636.

Rebecca Law, management service officer, Department of Ophthalmology. She was with UCSF and the department since 1962. A memorial fund will be established by the Department of Ophthalmology. For further information call x1921.
